THE WAR SITUATION.

Victory Near and Always Certain.

Prospects for Peace.

Many of the leading papers in their enthusiasm over the effort can vision at Manila are free in the expression of opinion that the beginning of the end of the war is in sight. They think that it will come as such a discouragement to the Spaniards that they will commence to sue for peace, and that the European powers, seeing the hopelessness of further effort upon the part of Spain, will advise the Queen Regent to surrender Cuba, and end the war and further disaster to the Spanish army and Spanish possessions. Gen. Buckner, of Kentucky, an old hero of two wars, does not hold such an opinion. He thinks the Manila disaster will dissipate the Spaniards but they will continue the fight with more desperate courage, and that the only way for the United States to win is to double its strength and its efforts.

Treasonable Utterances.

It is to be remembered that every citizen of the United States, men, women and children, now that war with Spain is actually, are loyal to their country, and want our armies to win. The sympathy of the people with their own army, their own ship and their own prompt this much loyalty, regardless of what each particular individual may think of the justification for the war, as an original proposition on the part of this government. If the proposition: "Is a war with Spain fully justifiable and imperative?" has been submitted to the voters of the United States before the Government had taken any war steps, there certainly would have been an immense negative vote. And the inner convictions of such people may not have been changed as to the justice and right of the war, but their action has and will be, and no doubt the thousands of them will be numbered among our truest and bravest soldiers. It is one thing, and most frequent, by the right and proper thing, for citizens to seek to influence a war they think not avoidable, and after the Government has acted, and war is actually existing, it becomes treasonable to say any opposition much louder than your own thoughts.

WAR MEANS HIGH PRICES.

War means high prices and temporary prosperity. When the Government comes into the market to buy everything, trade must double. The railroads all over the country are suddenly called upon to furnish transportation for thousands of soldiers and hundreds of thousands of tons of supplies, and this ensures larger dividends and a rise in stocks. All the staple industries are drawn into the war, and the army and navy in good condition. Millions of dollars that have been hoarded for years are taken from the national treasury and thrown broadcast to all sorts of people—everybody gets a share. In the meantime our foreign commerce is not seriously disturbed, since much of the trade is in foreign vessels, and the central bank covers our goods if they are not contraband. All these conditions favor a strong and continuous bull movement. The bears will have their innings, but the expenses of the war have to be paid but while the war continues prices will go skyward—no question Gleason.

TEN MILLION MEN, IF NEEDED.

In the amount of the country's fighting strength, outside of the regular army, the Adjutant General usually makes up, there are two elements. One is the organized militia maintained by the State and Territories, armed and drilled. The other is the total number of men available for military duty in the country, within the military age.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

There are as yet no indications that business has been unduly affected by the war. On the contrary, business is better than it was at this time last year, with a tendency to further improvement. The bank clearances are taken as the best business barometer. If the war does, as expected, no new loans are probable, and with the favorable loans that are made, there is every indication that is promised, there is every indication that the country will enter on the most prosperous era of its existence. If the present high price for wheat continues until another crop has been harvested, the gold that it will bring in from Europe will be fabulous in amount, and business conditions will necessarily be very brisk.

EVERYBODY INTERESTED IN IT.

Industrial Development Is One Thing Desired.

REMARKABLE SPIRIT OF PROGRESS.

It is not for the benefit of a class, but for the benefit of the whole people, that the State of Kentucky is so deeply interested in the industrial development of the State. The spirit of progress is everywhere to be seen in the State. The people are not content with the present, but they are looking for the future. They are not content with the present, but they are looking for the future. They are not content with the present, but they are looking for the future.

WHY WE WENT TO WAR.

Why have we gone to war? Is a question which has been disturbing some minds, which seem to doubt the justification. No good can come by raising a question now that war is a fact, and it is the evident duty of all patriots, to support their country to the end. It is the duty of all patriots, to support their country to the end. It is the duty of all patriots, to support their country to the end.
